News Release

SERDI Joins HPTi, Inc. Team on $4 billion IRS IDIQ Contract

February 14, 2011 – SERDI is among the expert companies to join High Performance Technologies, Inc. team on the IRS TIPSS-4. HPTi is one of 25 large primes on the Total Information Processing Support Services (TIPSS) 4 ITS contract. The total contract ceiling for the TIPSS-4 program is $4 billion. Task orders will be released under this contract covering a wide range of IT services ranging from development to cyber security to program management.

Thirty-three companies were selected as prime contractors on this multiple award contract among the industry's best competitors. They will be providing support which encompasses a large spectrum of services concerning local microcomputer applications to large-scale integrated legacy systems, and newly developed systems, as well as security services and program management. As one of the selections, SERDI provides cyber security, program management, enterprise architecture and systems engineering.

"I am so excited about the potential work we can pursue under the TIPSS-4 contract," stated SERDI CEO, Sabrina Poole. "The Department of the Treasury faces some of the most complicated IT challenges that impact America's prosperity. My team is delighted to have the chance to take on some of those challenges in partnership with HPTi and our government clients."
